

Oxford Hills Aspire Higher Race Car going deeper into our program!

Aspire Higher Race car team gets special presentation!

Recently two students from the Aspire Higher Race Car team have started writing articles about each of the different groups that they are involved in. One of the six groups in the Aspire Higher Race Car Team is the Graphic Design Group where students design merchandise and the decals for the body of the car. The group is full of artistic and creative future professionals who have a heart for art and are interested in designing clothing. For myself, an aspiring college student, and professional in interior design, being a part of this group has taught me so many new lessons through these real life experiences. Unlike sitting at a desk and listening to a teacher all day, we are out in the field, have real responsibilities and duties, and, like our sponsors, we act and perform like a real, professional business. Recently the team had Evan Beaulieu come in and talk to the kids about graphic design and some other things about marketing. Evan owns his own company called Nitro Designs, and he is a Super Late Model driver in the North East. The kids really enjoyed him coming , the graphic design team did the most, but everyone on our team benefited from his presentation that he showed us.
